The image displays a musical score for 'The Last Noel' using a figure-note system. The score is organized into four staves, labeled S (Soprano), A (Alto), T (Tenor), and B (Bass) on the left. Each staff contains a sequence of musical notes represented by colored geometric shapes: triangles for Soprano and Alto, circles for Tenor, and a mix of circles and squares for Bass. The shapes are arranged in a grid with vertical dashed lines separating the measures. Arrows point to specific notes, indicating their pitch or melodic movement. The shapes are colored in various colors including blue, green, yellow, black, brown, red, and grey. The Soprano staff starts with a blue triangle, followed by a blue triangle, a green triangle, a yellow triangle, a black triangle, a blue triangle, a black triangle, a yellow triangle, a green triangle, a blue triangle, a grey triangle, and a brown triangle.
